Market Preview

For the week commencing Nov 25th, 2024

- This week, we anticipate increased investor interest in attractively priced stocks as market participants seek to maximise capital gains opportunities ahead of year-end. This optimism is expected to bolster positive sentiment across the equities market.
- Additionally, sustained interest in bellwether stocks, particularly MTNN, is likely to drive further positive momentum, thus supporting the broader market's upward trajectory.
- In view of the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) meeting set to be held this week, we note the continued attractiveness of the fixed-income market, given the possibility of another rate hike at the meeting. However, we do not foresee significant capital outflows from the equities market.
- Overall, we project the market to maintain its bullish momentum this week.
